Warren's Memorial Day observance on Monday, May 31st will be high-lighted by a parade with exercises to follow at Oakland Cemetery.

The two veterans organizations will have charge of the parade and services. The parade will be organized and led by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 631 while members of Chief Complanter Post 155, American Legion will conduct the services in Oakland, both at the speaker's stand and at the G. Claude Hoyer, commander of Chief Complanter Post, will preside at the exercises at the cemetery, both at the speaker's stand and at the G.A.R. Circle where the impressive salute to the soldier dead will be given by members of the American Legion. The speaker of the day will be Dr. Carl E. Whipple, member of the Warren Borough School system. Committee Charges Red Tactics In Power Program

Myers Oppose Delaying FPC Appointment

Washington, May 26—(P)—Senator Myers (D-Pa.) said today he will oppose any move to delay action on Thomas C. Buchanan's appointment to the federal power commission.

A three-member senate commerce subcommittee is scheduled to vote on the nomination Thursday, then report to the full committee.

However, Senator Capehart (R-Ind.), subcommittee chairman, told reporters a delay might be necessary to hear additional witnesses.

To this Myers retorted: "What the Republicans are trying to do is delay action on the nomination. I will oppose any move for further delay."

During yesterday's testimony, there was talk of calling officials of the Pennsylvania Electric Association and the Pennsylvania Waterworks Association to get their views on Buchanan. He is a former member of the Pennsylvania Utility Commission.

David Dunlap, a former colleague of the utilities group, testified against Buchanan's appointment yesterday. He said he believes the utility companies in Pennsylvania are against Buchanan because they feel they cannot get a "fair deal" from him.

"I'm down here because I'd like to try my cases before a neutral tribunal," Dunlap said.

Miss Ann X. Alper, city solicitor of Pittsburgh, testified that Buchanan is "eminently qualified."

She said Pennsylvania utilities don't like him because of the vigor with which he has protected consumers.

"The utilities prefer a man with one eye—preferably two—closed to the consumers," she said.

Milk Drivers Vote To Strike

Pittsburgh, May 26—(P)—About 3,000 AFL-milk and ice cream drivers today declared themselves ready to strike if wage talks with the Greater Pittsburgh Milk Dealers Association fails.

Officials of the union announced a meeting of 2,300 members last night that the drivers had voted 9 to 1 for a strike. The ballots were cast last month.

An authoritative source said the drivers were asking a raise of 15 cents an hour and that the association had offered eight.

Drivers now have a seven-day week with a guaranteed daily minimum of $8.33. Their work also is figured on a commission basis which may make their pay higher.

Drivers get an additional 50 cents a day bonus, ordered by the war labor board in 1943, and included in contracts ever since.

The association asked the drivers to cut the work-week from seven to six days. Officials said that on Sundays the trucks carry only about 25 per cent of a normal week-day load. The association was to have offered a flat $5 a week extra, to be applied to Saturday pay, if the week-day week should be accepted.

Under the present contract, drivers work only six days a week but are paid regular commissions on the seventh day. An extra driver fills in on the seventh day.

The contract expired in April but was extended by the union until June 1.

WARREN OUT IN FRONT IN FLORIDA BALLOTING

Jacksonville, Fla., May 26—(P)—Jefferson returns from almost all of Florida's 1,530 precincts named 43-year-old Fuller Warren the apparent winner in yesterday's Democratic runoff primary for governor.

Warren, a Jacksonville attorney, spurred from behind to overcome an early lead established by Dan McCarty, 36-year-old citrus grower of Fort Pierce.

On the basis of reports from 1,421 precincts, Warren had 269,645 votes against 260,000 for McCarty.

In heavily Democratic Florida, Democratic nomination is tantamount to election. In the nine-man race for governor in the May 4 primary, Warren polled 188,263 votes and McCarty 161,775.

7 GET TO YEARS

Pittsburgh, May 26—(P)—Seven offenders got a total of 70 years in prison for various hold-ups and robberies yesterday in Allegheny county criminal court.

Longest sentence, 10 to 20 years, went to James Williams, 37, who confessed kidnapping and robbing an autoist, then using his car to hold up two grocery stores.

MOTORIST KILLED

Pittsburgh, May 26—(P)—Harry Dugan, about 32, was killed and three other men injured in an automobile crash late last night in St. Clair township. Police said the car ran off the street and hit a utility pole.

CENTENARIAN HONORED

Grove City, Pa., May 26—(P)—A. F. David, who will be 103 next December, yesterday received a plaque from the American Medical Association in recognition of his longevity.

UNIONS ASK GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP

Proposal That Railroads Be Nationalized Not Being Taken Seriously in Washington

Washington, May 26—(P)—A union demand that the government "begin preparations" to buy the railroads seemed to have little prospect today of being taken seriously in official Washington.

A group of 20 railroad unions made the proposal last night.

Their own leaders did not entirely agree on how far they want to go with nationalization of the industry.

There was no immediate comment from the White House or government agencies. But observers noted that congress would have to approve a step of this size—a big step toward socialism—and there are no signs that congress is in any such mood.

Railroad management officials made light of the proposal.

W. L. Farley, president of the Association of American Railroads, termed it "an attempt to divert attention" from the fact that three unions—the Engineers, Firemen, and Switchmen—rejected the recommendations of an impartial board in the present rail dispute.

Heads of the 20 unions, banded together in the Railway Labor Executives' Association, came to the aid of the engineers, firemen, and switchmen last night.

The 20 executives unanimously adopted a bitter resolution.

In it, they condemned the government as a "strike-breaking agency" because it seized legal control of the railroads May 10 and thus blocked a scheduled strike by the three unions.

Then they demanded that the government, having taken legal control, now assume "the full responsibilities of operation," take control of revenues, and bargain directly with the unions on wages and working conditions.

Finally they argued that the private operators more than once have shown their inability to maintain satisfactory labor relations and have failed to provide the public with efficient and prompt service.

Therefore, they said, the government should "begin preparations for the transfer of railroad ownership from private interests to the United States government."

This clearly suggested permanent nationalization. If carried to a conclusion it would mean buying the properties outright.

Arab Policy Unchanged on Shooting War

Amman, Trans-Jordan, May 26—(P)—An authoritative source said today the Arab League has rejected an unconditional cease fire for Palestine.

Cairo, May 26—(P)—Authoritative Arab sources said today the Arabs refuse to halt their shooting war against Israel unless the state is abandoned and the Jewish army disbanded.

Even before the United Nations Security Council deadline for a cease fire (noon, Eastern Standard Time), indications came from Arab capitals that the world organization had failed again to achieve peace in the blood-spattered Holy Land.

While Jewish military leaders braced for a stepped-up Arab onslaught in Jerusalem, Israel's provisional government informed the Security Council it is reconsidering its previous willingness to comply with a cease fire. This, the Jewish government said, is because the Arabs have undertaken a drive to win a decision in the battle of Jerusalem before the deadline.

The Arab League's political committee reconvened this morning in Amman, Trans-Jordan, to draft conditions for Arab acceptance of the Security Council's plea for a truce. These conditions are believed to include an end to Jewish immigration, disbandment of the Jewish army and return by the Jews of Jewish-occupied Arab territory. These are considered certain to meet Jewish refusal.

Egypt planned to tell the Security Council a cease fire would give "Zionist gangs" a chance to increase their arms and manpower in the Holy Land.

The Cairo newspaper Al Assas, organ of Premier Nokrashy Pasha's party, said Egyptian troops in Palestine took 1,500 Zionist prisoners in the occupation of Beit Suneid, 23 miles southwest of Tel Aviv, during the Egyptian drive up the Palestine coast.

In Damascus, high Arab officials conferred at the palace of President Shukri Al Kuwaty of Syria. At the meeting were the exiled Mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin El Hussein; the leader of the Arab volunteer "Yarmuk" army, Fawzi Bey Al Kaulji; Syrian premier

Mother Who Slapped Teacher Gets One Year Jail Sentence

Indiana, May 26—(P)—Because a judge ruled a teacher has the same rights of discipline as a parent, Mrs. Pearl Fulmer started serving a one year jail sentence today.

Mrs. Fulmer, mother of four children, testified she didn't like it when daughter, Mary, 10, came home from school last March 22 and reported her teacher had slapped her.

Mrs. Fulmer said she went to school the next day and slapped the teacher, Mrs. Claire McGara, in retaliation.

Mrs. McGara, said Mrs. Fulmer not only slapped her, but pummeled her against the blackboard and pulled her hair.

Furthermore, the teacher contended, she didn't slap Mary. She merely turned her around in her chair.

Judge E. E. Creps ruled the Pennsylvania school code gives a teacher the same rights of discipline as a parent and found Mrs. Fulmer guilty of assault.

BULLETINS

Helsinki, Finland, May 26—(P)—President Juho Paasikivi shook up his cabinet today in an effort to end the political crisis arising from Communist strikes.

London, May 26—(P)—An official Czechoslovak diplomatic source said today President Eduard Benes is "gravely ill" and is not expected to recover.

London, May 26—(P)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin said today Britain's treaty agreement to furnish officers for Trans-Jordan's Arab Legion will end only if it becomes "inconsistent with our obligations to the United Nations."

Washington, May 26—(P)—John C. Virden, who offered to quit a high government post after disclosure that his 22-year old daughter is working for a Russian news agency, today withdrew his resignation.

Lake Success, May 26—(P)—The Arab delegations here were told by their governments today that they could not accept the United Nations Palestine cease-fire order unconditionally.

Study Means To Head Off Seamen Strike

Washington, May 26—(P)—The government may invoke the Taft-Hartley act's national emergency provisions to head off a threatened all-coast maritime strike on June 15.

Top officials said today the action is under study because a shipment of goods would be blocked and shipping to Europe and Far East.

One leading administration labor adviser said the plan being considered is for President Truman to name a seven-man board to make a factual study of all issues involved in disputes raging on the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts.

Six unions, five of them CIO and one independent, have contracts expiring June 15. All want wage boosts, the amounts so far unspecified.

But a major issue, and one hampering negotiations being guided by the federal mediation service, is the union hiring hall traditionally on all coasts.

Through the hiring halls the unions for years have supplied employers with union members as seamen and longshoremen. The trouble now is that employers are balking at continuing the system and fear it is a form of closed shop, banned by the Taft-Hartley act.

The unions are insisting that the hiring halls be continued.

The labor department may put the question squarely up to Attorney General Clark for an opinion.

Appropriations Group Takes Issue With Cut Rate Policy

Washington, May 26—(P)—One phase of the government's public power program smacks of Russian tactics, the house appropriations committee charged today.

It took specific issue with the sale of cut-rate Bonneville power to a public utility district which took over a private company through condemnation action without putting the issue to a popular vote.

Such a "Soviet power policy" must stop, the committee declared. Its comment was contained in a report sending to the house floor a $375,677,591 interior department appropriation bill, cut 18 percent below President Truman's estimates.

The committee made no reference to testimony by Secretary Krug that the nation has "virtually nothing" in its stockpile of strategic and critical minerals needed for military use.

Neither did it accept the recommendation of Chairman Harness (R-Ind.) of an expenditures subcommittee that Michael Strauss and Richard L. Boke be relieved of their jobs as reclamation bureau executives. Harness had complained that the pair spent too much time on departmental propaganda work and were not qualified.

The committee centered most of its fire on the issue of public versus private utility operation in discussing the Bonneville power administration—an interior department agency in the Pacific northwest.

Present purchasers of power for resale, the committee said, "should be given preference in the renewal of contracts in order that they may continue to supply the needs of their customers. Also, when additional power is available for sale, such power should be distributed proportionately and equitably among purchasers and new purchasers of power."

The cut of $84,293,244 from the president's budget estimate of $459,970,835 for the department was one of the sharpest ordered this year for any agency. Part of the cut, however, was offset by approval of $29,944,290 in contract authority, for which appropriations will be made later.

The $375,677,591 cash in the bill is $112,876,532 more than the department was given for the present fiscal year, ending June 30. Extra funds for reclamation projects, for the bureau of mines, for railroad and highway improvement in Alaska, and for the national park service accounted for most of the increase, although all these projects had been budgeted for more.

The only departmental arm not cut was the fine arts commission, which got the $12,000 it asked.

The house appropriations committee also recommended $7,250,000 for work on synthetic liquid fuels during the year starting July 1.

This is $2,500,000 less than asked by the budget bureau.

The committee said it was recommending the cut because it believed there would be a carry-over of funds from this year's appropriation which would enable the program to go ahead without interruption. It said if it found that more money is needed it "will give every consideration to any additional request."

The program, which is being conducted by the bureau of mines in a number of experimental plants, is aimed at production of synthetic liquid fuels from such things as coal, oil shales, agricultural and forestry products. More than $24,000,000 has been appropriated thus far.

The committee also:

1. Recommended $1,460,000 for metallurgical research and pilot plants. This is $46,000 more than was appropriated for this year but $435,000 less than recommended in the budget.

2. Recommended $142,300—the full budget estimate—for care and maintenance of bureau of mines quarters at Pittsburgh and Bruceton, Pa. in addition it approved $175,000 for repairs.

Pittsburgh, May 26—(P)—Local 3 of the AFL-Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers yesterday signed a contract with the Building Trades Employees Association of Pittsburgh, granting a $2 a day pay hike for about 2,000 workers.

The new contract raises the hourly rate from $2.25 to $2.50.

Ford Dealers
Get Preview
Of New Cars

The all-new 1949 Ford car was shown for the first time to more than 1,000 Ford dealers from the northeastern part of the country at a regional sales meeting and preview showing held Saturday, May 22, in New York City at the Waldorf-Astoria, J. C. Buckheit of the Keystone Garage disclosed today.

Although the new Ford line will not be shown publicly until the world premier, June 10th, in the Waldorf-Astoria, the private preview was held so Ford dealers could get an early glimpse of the radically-changed cars they will soon offer to the public.

In commenting on the preview, Mr. Buckheit said that it was held in strict secrecy and under conditions "reminiscent of war-time security." Design, appearance and engineering features of the new line must remain confidential until the public introduction, June 10th.

Henry Ford, II, president of the Ford Motor Company, in a special message to the dealer group declared "There is only one feature—one outstanding feature—in the 1949 line that is not new. It is a feature that was built into today's car by my grandfather. We might call that feature the traditional Ford philosophy of giving the public the highest quality at the lowest possible price. That's what makes it a Ford."

The new 1949 line of Ford passenger automobiles represents an investment by the Ford Motor company of more than $110,000,000 in new equipment, tools, dies, machines, and several new plants. This huge investment, however, has enabled Ford to produce the finest all-new cars in the automotive industry.

In commenting on this expenditure, Ernest R. Breech, Ford executive vice president in a special message declared that "never in the history of the automotive world was so much accomplished within such a short space of time."

"The 1949 Ford models represent more than 18 months of rigorous testing, involving hundreds of laboratory tests of all types and more than 1,000,000 miles of actual road operation," Mr. Breech observed.

J. R. Davis, Ford vice president and director of sales and advertising told the dealers that a competitive buyer's market was still "a long way off, and would be prolonged due to the present economic situation both at home and abroad." There are still 10,000,000 new-car buying families in America waiting to take delivery of a car, Mr. Davis said.

C. J. Seyffert, manager of Ford's northeast region, stressed the importance of leadership among Ford dealers in both sales volume in the automotive industry and in community building.

Ford dealers throughout the nation will display the new models in their showrooms beginning June 18th, Mr. Buckheit said.

Back from a nine-month trip to England, during which she said she gained five pounds on Britain's "austerity" diet, is Mae West. The "come-up-and-see-some-sometime" actress, arriving in New York, said British men reacted "very good" to her performances in "Diamond Lil."

Ordination In Rock Island
Of Interest

The program for the Augustana Synod's centennial celebration in Rock Island, Ill., on June 13 will be of more than usual local interest, since it will include the ordination into the holy ministry of a former Sheffield boy, Elmore F. Carlson, son of Mrs. J. H. Kratt, Lansing Hill, and the late P. August Carlson.

Mr. Carlson was graduated from Bethany College of Lindsborg, Kansas, in 1941. At that time he received his bachelor of music degree. He then served as assistant pastor in the First Lutheran church in New Britain, Conn. Later he served as supply pastor for two years in the Messiah Church at Rosinville, Boston, Mass., and while there he attended the University of Boston. In 1945 he received his bachelor of arts from Bethany College.

He attended the Augustana Theological Seminary at Rock Island, Ill., for three years. While there he has directed the Seminary Chorus and has been very active in other choral work.

Mr. Carlson has accepted a call to Nampa, Idaho, where a new church is being established in a home mission field. He will assume his pastorate there August 15.

Ford Dealers
Get Preview
Of New Cars

The all-new 1949 Ford car was shown for the first time to more than 1,000 Ford dealers from the northeastern part of the country at a regional sales meeting and preview was held so Ford dealers could get an early glimpse of the radically-changed cars they will soon offer to the public.

In commenting on the preview, Mr. Buckheit said that it was held in strict secrecy and under conditions "reminiscent of war-time security." Design, appearance and engineering features of the new line must remain confidential until the public introduction, June 10th.

Henry Ford, II, president of the Ford Motor Company, in a special film message to the dealer group declared "There is only one feature—one outstanding feature—in the 1949 line that is not new. It is a feature that was built into today's car by my grandfather. We might call that feature the traditional Ford philosophy of giving the public the highest quality at the lowest possible price. That's what makes it a Ford."

The new 1949 line of Ford passenger automobiles represents an investment by the Ford Motor company of more than $110,000,000 in new equipment, tools, dies, machines, and several new plants. This huge investment, however, has enabled Ford to produce the fits all-new cars in the automotive industry.

In commenting on this expenditure, Ernest R. Breech, Ford executive vice president in a special film message declared that "never in the history of the automotive world was so much accomplished within such a short space of time. The entire company was reorganized, a brand new product designed, tested and made ready for production in less than two years."

"The 1949 Ford models represent more than 18 months of rigorous testing, involving hundreds of laboratory tests of all types and more than 1,000,000 miles of actual road operation," Mr. Breech observed.

J. R. Davis, Ford vice president and director of sales and advertising, told the dealers that a competitive buyer's market was still "a long way off," and would be prolonged due to the present economic situation both at home and abroad.

C. J. Seyfer, manager of Ford's northeast region, stressed the importance of leadership among Ford dealers in both sales volume in the automotive industry and in community building.

Ford dealers throughout the nation will display the new models in their showrooms beginning June 18th, Mr. Buckheit said.

MINORITY REPORT

The Senate War Investigating Committee's probe of Howard Hughes was a good deal like a Fourth of July rocket. Everyone stood around with jaws agape when it started off with a roar and a shower of sparks. But nobody cared much when or where the burned and blackened fragments came floating back to earth.

Well, for the record, the last fragment of the Hughes investigation has landed in the form of a minority report by the committee's Democratic members. The majority report was submitted last month, and the minority members have taken some exceptions to its contents.

This report called Mr. Hughes' flying boat an "unwise and unjustifiable expense as a wartime project." It branded his photo reconnaissance planes "a failure as a war project." It criticized him for showering lavish entertainment, gifts, etc., on government officials. And it rebuked Mr. Hughes for failing to tell at the time of pressure put upon him by Maj. Gen. Bennett Meyers.

The Democratic members point out that the government has accepted delivery of both the flying boat and the reconnaissance planes. They point out that these and 61 other types of planes never saw combat. But they say, the Hughes contracts, which constituted only a fraction of one per cent of what the government spent on war planes, are the only ones that have been investigated.

The minority report recalls that, in a 1943 report of this same committee, Senators Brewster and Ferguson subscribed to a recommendation that experimental work on this same flying boat be continued. It agrees that Mr. Hughes should have told of the Meyers demands. And, without defending the spending of money for entertainment, it brings up the fact that Mr. Hughes spent $7,000,000 of his own money in developing these aircraft.

The main point of the minority report, however, is one that has been raised before by outsiders about congressional committee procedure. We do not suggest that both parties have not employed this procedure. But it is interesting to hear criticism from among the legislative membership.

The Democratic senators find that the majority report "does not, in many cases, make plain, direct findings, but might by inference and innuendo imply grave wrongdoings not expressly charged. Also, it does not absolve from guilt where evidence indicates such absolution."

There may be political motives behind this minority criticism, as there may have been behind the Hughes probe. But the fact remains that damnation by innuendo is a too-frequent practice of congressional investigators, and that it is a practice which can damage reputations and prejudice the public by conclusions drawn from the flimsiest evidence or no evidence at all.

We agree with the minority report's conclusion: "Recognizing the great value of congressional investigations to our system of government and the necessity for continuing of broad powers in the committees of Congress, nonetheless we believe the protection of citizens requires that they should know their rights, duties and immunities in such proceedings."

FOOD RATIONING IN BRITAIN

Without comment, other than to remark that Americans are most fortunate, we print today the current weekly ration allowance for citizens of Great Britain, as provided by the British Information Services:

(For normal adults).
Butter—3 ounces until May 23. After that, 4 ounces.
Margarine—4 ounces until May 23. After that, 3 ounces.

Sugar—In addition to the regular 8 ounces weekly, there is an issue of 1 pound for jam making in the 4-week period April 25-May 22.

Preserves—In addition to the regular 4 ounces weekly, there is an extra 1 pound in the 4-week period May 23-June 20.

Candy—4 ounces (temporarily, beginning April 25). Increased from 3 ounces.

Milk—3½ pints beginning April 25. Seasonal increase from 2½ pints.

Potatoes—Off ration.

This, you must be reminded, is the allowance for ONE WEEK. America is not only the land of the free and the home of the brave—but a country where most everyone is well-fed.

Along with many other friends in the community, the Times-Mirror extends best wishes for many more helpful years of service to the Warren YWCA, which is celebrating its 35th birthday anniversary and still has serving on its board of directors three of its charter members, Mrs. J. Interesting Items Taken From The Warren Evening Times

A. A. Albaugh, treasurer and general manager of the Barnhart-Davis Company, was elected president of the Warren County Motor Club at the annual meeting at the YMCA last evening.

The highest point in Warren county, according to a state survey made recently, is in Elk township, 2,220. The hill at Scandia is reported to be 2,140.

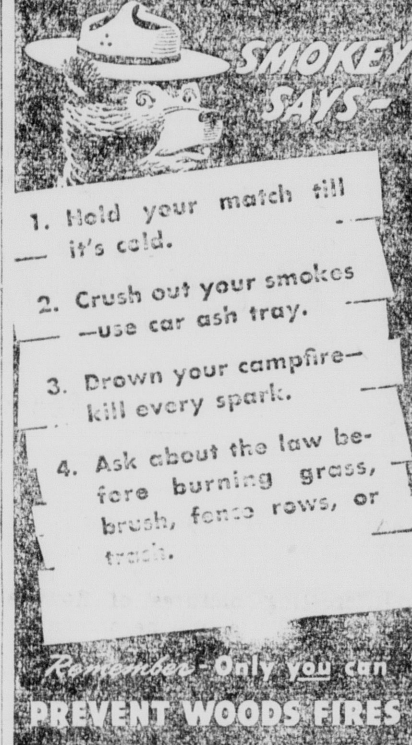

Four voting machines, similar to the one which was demonstrated for several weeks in Warren recently, will be used during the day-long saving issue referendum next Saturday, when residents will ballot at the city building to decide whether or not a majority favors the adoption of the change.

The Beerless Quartet of the local Kiwanis club are to chortle three times this week. They entertained the combined Life Study and Friday Noon Clubs Thursday night, and Friday they go to West Hickory. The quartet at present is composed of Doctor F. G. Schuler, first tenor; S. M. McClure, second tenor; Byron Knapp, baritone; and Bill Hill, bass.

At a recent meeting of the board of directors of Oakland cemetery, it was decided that the cemetery would erect government headstones on graves of veterans.

The newest of Warren's up-to-date mercantile establishments, the F. W. Woolworth Company store on Liberty street, will be opened to the public Friday morning, it was announced by John R. North, manager.

Two large deer attracted a great deal of attention about nine this morning when they appeared in Cresskill park. After cavorting in the playground for a while they left via the river.

Sir William Johnson was rewarded by George of England for his services in the French and Indian War. The reward was a baronetcy, the first and only one granted on American soil, which occupied large areas of what is now northern New York state.

Quick Growing Flowers Best for Late Sowing

Flowers which germinate quickly are most suitable for sowing directly in the garden. Slow growing varieties are more subject to fungi, and are often lost in the weed growth which develops before they appear. There is an attractive list of annuals which will germinate in 5 to 10 days from the time of sowing, and flower in 30 to 40 days. These include:

Sweet Alyssum
Amaranthus
Antirrhinum (snap-dragon)
Aster
Calendula
Calliopsis
Candytuft
Celosia
Centauria
Cheiranthus
Cosmos
Dianthus
California Poppy Nasturtium

into the soil at the bottom. Throw in loose soil and sow the seeds, then cover them lightly with fine soil, or a specially prepared mixture of soil and sand if your garden soil is heavy.

When the seedlings appear, thin out to a single plant, and transplant the discarded seedlings. The plants which grow undisturbed will flower first. Be sure to give flowers plenty of room; they suffer from overcrowding, producing smaller and fewer flowers.

Flowers which are grown in the Freedom garden should be planted just as vegetables are, and given the same care. Those of upright growth, which keep their place and do not sprawl out of line and against their neighbors are best for this use. Marigolds, zinnias, calendula, cosmos, centaurea, nicotiana are examples.

Modern marigolds have been greatly improved by plant breeders, and while they do not offer a wide range of color, they have a remarkable variety of sizes and forms. Among the giant flowered types are some which resemble carnations, others chrysanthemums, and still others have blossoms formed like dahlias.

Youngsville Class Hears Fine Sermon

Youngsville, May 26—The Methodist church was filled nearly to capacity on Sunday evening when the YHS Class of 1918, numbering more than 60 and attired in gray caps and gowns, took their reserved seats in the church along with faculty members. Beautiful baskets of spring flowers were used in decorations.

The organ prelude, played by Janet Jones, was followed by the processional hymn, "God of Our Fathers," and the invocation given by Rev. Harold V. Lindquist.

The senior class quartet, consisting of Flores Potter, Romaine Mason, Leo Whaley, and Norma Haight, sang a beautiful anthem, "A Heavenly Night," playing the accompaniment. The scripture lesson and prayer were given by Rev. Lindquist, who expressed regret that Rev. E. W. Chute, Methodist pastor, could not be present because of illness.

An impressive and earnest baccalaureate address was delivered by Rev. Warren L. Chase on the theme "The Folly of Selfish Living."

Following the benediction the recessional hymn, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," was sung and Miss Jones played the organ postlude.

Youngsville, May 26—Much interest is being shown in the plans for Youngsville's Old Home Week, June 15-19, when there will be several parades, fireworks, games, exhibitions of various types, and water sports, including men's demonstrations. Many concessions have been secured and the Old Home Week schedule promises to be entertaining for all ages. The Legion and Fireman are cooperating in sponsoring these days of fun on Island Park.

Members of the senior class were entertained in the Grange Hall with a gay time of dancing and games for the 65 present. A luncheon was served by parents and friends of the class, who acted as sponsors for the party.

Another party held in the Grange Hall, was sponsored by the home economics girls with their escorts, with teachers and parents as chaperones.

Discovery in a Grain of Rice

It had paralyzed and rotted muscles in Egypt, turned men to skeletons in Japan, made thousands of swollen, useless cripples in the European wars—yet no one knew the cause of Beri Beri until, 1889, Dr. Eijkman noticed the chickens he experimented with evincing the same symptoms. The chickens had been fed on polished white rice. When returned to a diet of dirty brown unpolished rice, the symptoms disappeared. Food made the difference. Two years later Dr. Gerrit Grijns proved that Beri Beri WAS the result of a diet deficiency.

Today, diet deficiency can be prevented or remedied by use of the proper vitamins. Your doctor can tell you what vitamins you need. You'll be able to fill his prescription here where stocks are large and FRESH.

Harold Triggs Provides Delightful Evening of Piano For His Friends

A fine audience greeted the composer-pianist Harold Triggs when he appeared in recital at the Woman's Club auditorium Monday evening. The artist was presented by the Philomel Club and the Woman's Club and members of these two organizations and their guests were privileged to hear an evening of distinguished piano playing.

Mr. Triggs presented a program which ranged from 16th and 17th century pieces to music of the pianist's own composition. Chopin, Schumann, Brahms, Ravel, Rachmaninoff, Shostakovich and Poulenc made up the rest of the program. This program was fairly long but the artist's exceptional musicianship enabled him to carry his audience with him as far and as long as he pleased. His playing was a delight from the Purcell Air which opened the program, to Chopin's ever-charming Waltz in G Flat which was an encore.

Mr. Triggs' own compositions were particularly well received. It was apparent as he played his "Masquerade" Suite, with its six intriguing miniatures, that the audience was loving every minute of it. This group of delightful compositions, melodious in character, is full of imagination and makes very lively music. The composer played them with verve.

It is difficult to say that Mr. Triggs excels in any one style, because he excels in them all. His playing of the little pieces of Purcell and Peerson was excellent. So was his playing of the Chopin group, notable for the two Nocturnes and the G Minor Ballade. And so one could continue down the length of the entire program.

Many felt that the pianist was at his best in the three Ravel pieces. To some, the highlight of the evening was the enchanting Gypsy Rondo of Haydn. The brilliance and flexibility of his technique brought these to a level of perfection it would be difficult to surpass. The Poulenc Pastourelle was an especial delight, and the program concluded brilliantly with the fiery Caprice Italian.

Mr. Triggs' playing has always been distinctive for its variety of touch and beauty of tone. His excellent technique, together with the beautiful tone of the Steinway piano, made a superb combination. Warren is fortunate to have heard this fine artist again.

35th Anniversary of YW Is Marked By Special Tribute To Charter Members

The Warren YWCA observed its 35th anniversary last evening, with a very pleasant birthday party in the activities building.

Miss MayBelle Bairstow, president of the board of directors, presided and the program was opened by the Warren Boys' Choir, directed by Byron Swanson and accompanied by Miss Evelyn Wolstencroft. This first group of numbers had a religious theme and was followed by the invocation by Rev. David Carlson, minister of the Bethlehem Congregational church and newly-elected president of the Warren County Ministerial Association.

Mrs. U. S. Rogers, a charter member of the YWCA now serving on the board of directors, led a responsive scripture reading. Charter members of the YW were asked to stand and tribute was paid to the 30 members present. She announced several messages received from others who could not be present. Mrs. W. F. Bennett, also a charter member and now serving on the board of directors, led a Litany of Thanksgiving, which was followed by the assembled group's singing the hymn so familiar to "Y" members "Follow the Gleam."

Mrs. J. P. Rogers, first president, a charter member and a member of the present board of directors, was the leader of the rededication service. This service was as used when the activities building was dedicated Sunday, January 16, 1927. Miss Bairstow closed the service of worship with a benediction.

The Boys' Choir entertained again with selections which showed the versatility of the group and featured individual soloists.

For a June Bride

If you are planning a party for a June bride, you will boost your reputation as a hostess by making it a kitchen shower and planning an imaginative table setting that will elevate to party status these utilitarian but necessary articles. To make a festive show, work out a plan beforehand with the donors and set a table for a clever display. Custard cup holders, pie tin dinner plates and dish towel drapery set the pace for the cleverly decorated table we have in mind.

Green and white cross-barred linen dish towels may be gathered into swags around the edge of a plain green linen cloth, attaching to the gathered up ends small gadgets as measuring spoons and the like. A glass baking dish filled with white daisies, green foliage and iris form a centerpiece. More daisies may float around the candles, which are held in place with bits of modeling clay. Pie tins may be alternated with cake tins in the role of dinner plates and a hot main-dish casserole is served in individual oven dishes with covers. Simple tumblers and colored plastic handled cutlery complete the service.

Favorite recipes typed on the backs of recipe file cards and autographed by the guests make place cards held upright in clothespins. After supper is over, dishes are washed, the table decorations are dismantled and packed up to be carried home by the happy bride-to-be.

A "PEACE PLATE" FOR TODAY

Save Wheat! Save Meat! Save the Peace!

THURSDAY PEACE PLATE

It's a thrifty threesome—this vegetable-beef soup that's sturdy enough for a main dish, our crisp fruity salad, and chocolate waffles for dessert.

And it's delicious eating. What could enchant the children more than chocolate waffles served with syrup!

Serving-size pieces of browned meat make the soup wonderfully hearty. And of course it's bright with vegetables such as green cabbage and tomatoes.

Those economy cuts of beef will go easy on your meat bill. You can use beef flank or knuckle soup bone in the soup.

VEGETABLE-BEEF SOUP

2 tablespoons drippings
2 quarts cold water
Salt, pepper
1/4 cup barley
2 medium onions, sliced
4 celery stalks, sliced up
2 medium potatoes, sliced
1 cup cabbage, shredded
2 cups canned tomatoes

Cut meat from bone in serving size pieces and brown in drippings. Cover meat and bone with cold salted water and simmer until tender. Remove meat and bone from broth. Cool and skim off fat. Bring broth to a boil, add barley, and when it boils again add all vegetables except tomatoes. Cook until vegetables are tender, add tomatoes and reheat. While vegetables cook, brown meat again slowly in drippings to give added flavor and color. Serve meat in bowl of hot vegetable soup. Serves 4.

Thrifty Vegetable-Beef Soup
Carrot, Apple, Raisin Salad
Chocolate Waffles, Syrup

FOOD TIPS: You'll have the beginnings of a good soup if you ask your meat dealer for the bones when he bones a rolled roast for you.

And you may want to add a pound of plate or soup meat.

If you buy a soup bone such as shin of beef, ask the dealer to saw the bone in pieces so that you get the full flavor of the bone marrow in the soup.

Slow cooking brings out the flavor of the meat. And it enriches the soup with gelatin from the bone and connective tissues of the meat.

Be wise and cook the meat and bones the day before you make soup. When the stock cools, the fat can be more easily lifted off.

You see, removing the fat serves two purposes. You save the fat for other cooking. And the soup's better this way—free from a topping of fat.

If you buy a large shin bone, there'll be enough meat for soup plus the makings of an extended meat dish for another day. Try those good stand-bys, of meat with noodles or meat pie with potato crust.

The program for the evening included a piano solo by Shirley Brown and a very interesting talk by Dr. W. J. Prout, pastor of the Presbyterian church, on the topic, "Getting Better Acquainted With My Neighbor."

Poppy Sales Aid Children Of Veterans

Thirty women and girls of Warren have volunteered to distribute memorial poppies in the Friday and Saturday Poppy Days being held this week by the American Legion Auxiliary.

Mrs. Milton Witz, Poppy Day chairman for Chief Cornplanter Auxiliary, reports she has received 7,500 poppies for this year's sale, proceeds of which are used for rehabilitation and child welfare work carried on by the local organization.

The little hand made flowers cost $50 per thousand, requiring an outlay of $375 for this year's supply. Ten per cent of the net profit goes to the Department of Pennsylvania Auxiliary; the remainder stays here for local work. Since October, 1947, the Chief Cornplanter Auxiliary has remembered on several occasions 80 veterans at Warren State Hospital, 30 other boys in various hospitals, and 10 veterans' families. In addition, the unit has "adopted" two girls at the Scotland School for Veterans' orphans, remembering them five times a year and at graduation.

Aiding the needy children of war veterans is one of the finest things accomplished through sale of the memorial poppies, it is pointed out. The number of such children receiving aid is increasing rapidly, making more important than ever a generous response to Poppy Days.

"Families of veterans too disabled to do regular work and those of veterans who have died are facing hardship right here in the midst of our prosperous community," Mrs. Witz states. "High prices reduce the value of any government compensation they may receive. Mothers of young children face a difficult problem if they must go to work."

I know that we would all like to do something for the families of these men who have done so much for us, and the memorial poppy gives us an opportunity to contribute to their welfare."

The first written use of the expression, "hair of the dog," is believed to be contained in an English translation of a French book published in 1616, when "haire of the beast that hath made thee ill" is prescribed as a cure for "the head that complaineth itself of too much drinke of wine."

British Socialism Pausing For Consolidation of "Gains"

By DEWITT MACENZIE
A. P. Foreign Affairs Analyst
Britain's trial of socialist government has taken a highly interesting turn—a pause for consolidation of "gains."

This indicates that Prime Minister Attlee and his cabinet are fearful of over-extending their communications if they continue an all-out offensive. It also means I believe, that the high command notes a decided increase in public resistance to further socialist experiments until those already undertaken have demonstrated their value.

Bond-a-Month Plan Vital to U. S. Peace

By Mills E. Lane, Jr., President
Citizens & Southern National Bank
Atlanta, Georgia
During the war our bank published a message titled "Only Saving Will Save America." The nation worked to save materials, scrap, time, food, and money. It was part of the job of winning the war. Now, peace and more especially in this period of inflation, we are of the same mind.

Thrift and saving made this country great. Out of saving came capital and out of capital investment came industry and business. These in turn provided employment and created our high standard of living. Stimulating thrift and saving is a cardinal principle of good banking. Every bank in the nation should intensify its effort to induce people to build their own future security through regular savings programs in this period of high national income. The Bond-a-Month Program will win peace as surely as it helped to win the war.

nationalization of some 20 per cent of British industry. This was a tremendous venture for capitalism in England, but she took the chance and put Socialism in the saddle for what, under normal circumstances, would be a five-year period.

In three years the Attlee government has nationalized coal, inland transport, civil aviation, the Bank of England, foreign communications, electricity, and now is in process of nationalizing gas. In short the program has been carried out with one important exception—nationalization of iron and steel, which is one of the country's biggest industries.

Whatever may happen to iron and steel, the Socialist leadership made it plain at the annual labor conference this week that, to quote Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison, "the time comes, as we know in war, when a headlong advance must be followed by detailed consolidation... that is the stage which we are now reaching. x x x If we go on always stretching out our hands for more and not making good the gains we have claimed, only disaster can follow."

So far so good, but there is a bit more to the pause for consolidation. Socialism is looking forward to the next general election which normally will come two years hence. The government will have to be able to present a good report of stewardship if it is to be returned to power by a public which, as a whole, has no ideological leaning towards socialism. Many of those who voted for the Socialists in the last election didn't belong to the party but decided to give the Laborites their chance.

Thus we see the government embarking seriously on "consolidation." Moreover we find it conducting a purge of Communists from Socialist ranks.

British Socialism is getting set for the big test which will decide whether England accepts or rejects it.

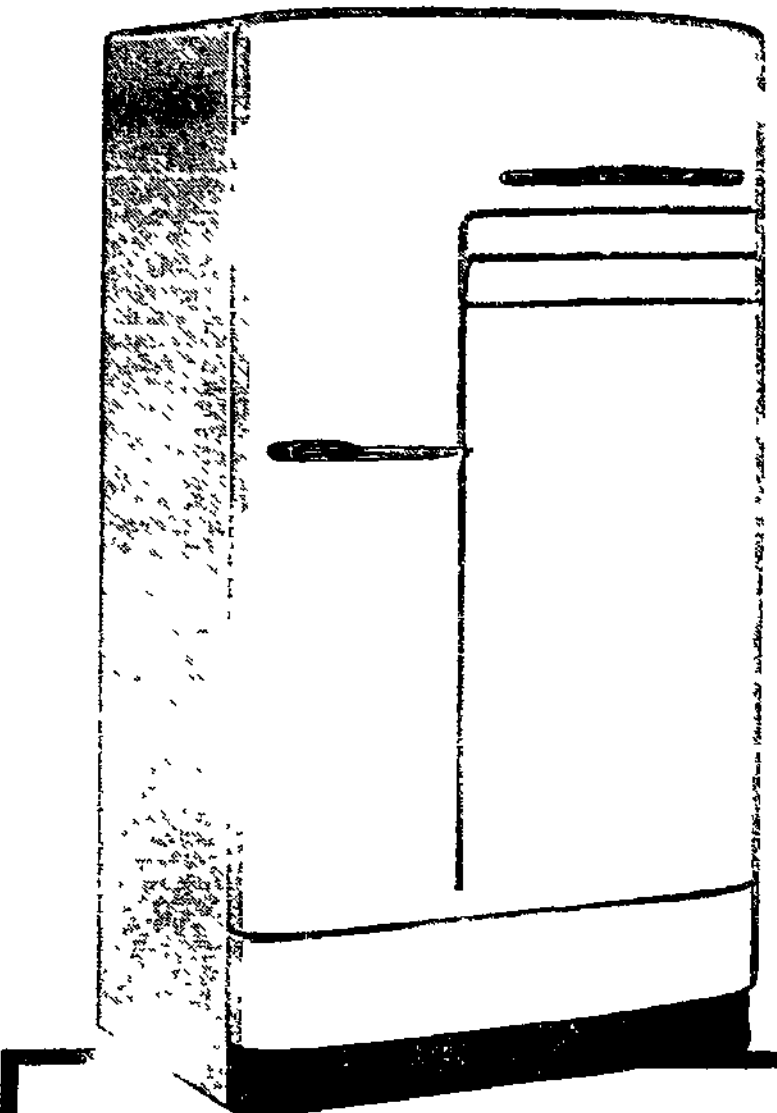

Peanut butter sauce is good on cooked cabbage, onions or cauliflower. You won't need much flour in this sauce as it will thicken the liquid as it cooks. Use 1 tablespoon table fat, 1/2 cup peanut butter, 2 teaspoons flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, pepper; and 1 cup milk. Melt fat over boiling water, blend in peanut butter. Add flour, seasonings, stir until smooth. Stir in cold milk slowly. Cook over boiling water until thickened, stirring constantly.

Brasing in a small amount of liquid at a low temperature will help to tenderize some of the tougher cuts of meat. If potatoes or carrots, onions or celery are to be cooked with the meat they should be added toward the end of the meat's cooking period.

Whatever may happen to iron and steel, the Socialist leadership made it plain at the annual labor conference this week that, to quote Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison, "the time comes, as we know in war, when a headlong advance must be followed by detailed consolidation x x x that is the stage which we are now reaching. x x x If we go on always stretching out our hands for more and not making good the gains we have claimed, only disaster can follow."

So far so good, but there is a bit more to the pause for consolidation. Socialism is looking forward to the next general election which normally will come two years hence. The government will have to be able to present a good report of stewardship if it is to be returned to power by a public which, as a whole, has no ideological leaning towards socialism. Many of those who voted for the Socialists in the last election didn't belong to the party but decided to give the Laborites their chance.

Thus we see the government embarking seriously on "consolidation." Moreover we find it conducting a purge of Communists from Socialist ranks.
British Socialism is getting set for the big test which will decide whether England accepts or rejects it.

Peanut butter sauce is good on cooked cabbage, onions or cauliflower. You won't need much flour in this sauce as it will thicken the liquid as it cooks. Use 1 tablespoon table fat; 1/2 cup peanut butter; 2 teaspoons flour; 1/2 teaspoon salt; pepper; and 1 cup milk. Melt fat over boiling water, blend in peanut butter. Add flour, seasonings, stir until smooth. Stir in cold milk slowly. Cook over boiling water until thickened, stirring constantly.

Braising in a small amount of liquid at a low temperature will help to tenderize some of the tougher cuts of meat. If potatoes or carrots, onions or celery are to be cooked with the meat they should be added toward the end of the meat's cooking period.

Bond-a-Month Plan Vital to U. S. Peace

By Mills B. Lane, Jr., President
Citizens & Southern National Bank
Atlanta, Georgia

During the war our bank published a message titled "Only Saving Will Save America." The nation worked to save materials, scrap, time, food, and money. It was part of the job of winning the war. Now, peace and more especially in this period of inflation, we are of the same mind.

Thrift and saving made this country great. Out of saving came capital and out of capital investment came industry and business. These in turn provided employment and created our high standard of living. Stimulating thrift and saving is a cardinal principle of good banking. Every bank in the nation should intensify its effort to induce people to build their own future security through regular savings programs in this period of high national income. The Bond-a-Month Program will win peace as surely as it helped to win the war.

Auto Industry Scans GMPact

Detroit, May 26.—(P)—Terms of General Motors Corporation's history-making wage agreement with its CIO auto workers were studied today by negotiators seeking today to end the 15-day Chrysler strike.

Representatives of Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers return to the bargaining table today (1 p. m. EST) for the first time since 75,000 production workers walked out May 12.

Michigan's Gov. Kim Sigler asked the resumption of wage talks and arranged the session, but he sent no representative.

The CIO's Chrysler negotiating team officially demanding a 30-cent hourly wage boost—has given no indication whether it would accept an 11-cent increase geared to the cost of living such as the one that ended a strike threat at General Motors.

Nor has the corporation commented on possibilities of raising its best previous offer of six cents an hour to a figure matching the General Motors commitment in a two-year contract approved yesterday.

But throughout the auto industry it was believed the GM-UAW settlement would provide a pattern for future wage negotiations.

It was expected to bring the Chrysler strike to a quick conclusion and have a definite effect on union wage talks between the union and the Ford Motor Co., which has suggested a pay cut.

Average hourly wages in the industry's big three—General Motors, Chrysler and Ford—are about $1.50. The GM boost raises the figure in its plants to $1.61 per hour, at least until September. Then wages will be reviewed and possibly revised with reference to the cost of living, the new contract provides.

The General Motors agreement—unique in the industry's wage bargaining annals—was accepted by the company and UAW leaders early yesterday morning, after an 18-hour session.

Arab Policy Unchanged On Shooting War

Jamil Mardam Bey and others.
Al Ahram, Independent Cairo newspaper, said the Egyptian government had informed the U. N. that the cease fire order was unacceptable. The newspaper also carried an Amman dispatch quoting King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan as saying the truce order "has no basis in right or justice, and the Arab peoples will not accept the cease fire."

Haganah, the army of Israel, said unidentified planes gave Jerusalem its first air bombing in history yesterday afternoon. There was no confirmation from Jerusalem or in Arab capitals.

Associated Press correspondent Carter L. Davidson said the Jews inside Jerusalem expect an Arab blitz designed to give the Arabs a victory to bolster prestige at home and abroad.

Davidson said the Jews expected the attack to come before the Arabs reply to the U. N. cease fire plea.

Bell Telephone Company is placing in operation today the new police radio in Warren. New transmitters are being installed in headquarters and in the trunk of the police radio car.

The new radio, latest in FM transmitting equipment available at this time, will broadcast at 155.13 megacycles, a band reserved exclusively for municipal police radios. The call letters, WENZ, will remain the same as formerly.

Power of the radio will be 50 watts and will give complete coverage of Warren borough and an indeterminate distance outside. The outside coverage depends on the terrain and can be determined only by test after the set is installed. All repair and maintenance will be performed by Bell Telephone trained radio men.

Sixty per cent of Canada's land area is covered with forest.

Auto Industry To Be Speaker Scans GM Pact

DETROIT, May 26.—(P)—Terms of General Motors Corporation's history-making wage agreement with its CIO auto workers were studied today by negotiators seeking today to end the 15-day Chrysler strike.

Representatives of Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers return to the bargaining table today (1 p. m. EST) for the first time since 75,000 production workers walked out May 12.

Michigan's Gov. Kim Sigler asked the resumption of wage talks and arranged the session, but he sent no representative.

The UAW's Chrysler negotiating team—officially demanding a 30-cent hourly wage boost—has given no indication whether it would accept an 11-cent increase geared to the cost of living such as the one that ended a strike threat at General Motors.

Nor has the corporation commented on possibilities of raising its best previous offer of six cents an hour to a figure matching the General Motors commitment in a two-year contract approved yesterday.

But throughout the auto industry settlement would provide a pattern for future wage negotiations.

It was expected to bring the Chrysler strike to a quick conclusion and have a definite effect on coming wage talks between the union and the Ford Motor Co., which has suggested a pay cut.

Average hourly wages in the industry's big three—General Motors, Chrysler and Ford—are about $1.50. The GM boost raises the figure in its plants to $1.61 per hour, at least until September. Then wages will be reviewed and possibly revised with reference to the cost of living, the new contract provides.

The General Motors agreement—unique in the industry's wage bargaining annals—was accepted by the company and UAW leaders early yesterday morning after an 18-hour session.

Indians Putting Squeeze On A. L. With Guy Named Lemon

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cleveland Indians are putting the squeeze on the rest of the American league clubs with a "lemon"—Bob Lemon, a converted infielder-outfielder.

Lemon, the No. 2 pitcher on the tribe's staff—second only to Bob Feller—has been knocking the bats out of enemy hands with even greater éclat than his tutor Rapid Robert himself.

The 27-year-old native of Long Beach turned in his best performance of the season last night as he shut out the Washington Senators, 4-0. He allowed only four hits and fanned 11—a season high.

The victory enabled the Indians to retain their half-game margin over the runner-up Philadelphia Athletics.

The battery combination of Pitcher Bob Savage and Catcher Buddy Roser led the A's to a 4-3 win over the White Sox in a night

Golf In a Stroke

Last of a series written for
NEA Service

By CLAUDE HARMON
Master of the Masters

Winged Foot Golf Club, Mamaroneck, N. Y. (NEA) — In the swing, remember that your arms, body and feet move as a unit. As you start the backswing, let your weight and body roll to the right.

As you begin the downswing, let your weight move to the left. This is called a lateral shift.

As you do this, be sure your head is behind the ball at all times. Do not let the momentum of the swing pull your body forward.

In the follow through of the swing, make a high finish. This will prevent you from pulling.

Keep your eyes on the ball. The importance of putting cannot be stressed too strongly. Don't worry too much about your stance. Strive for smoothness.

Keep the wrists straight. Let the club swing as a pendulum.

Hogan Wins Second PGA Championship

St. Louis, May 26—(P)—Stone-faced Ben Hogan, the great little pressure player from Hershey, Pa., can thank a fine iron game for his boost to the family bankroll.

Hogan beat veteran Mike Turnesa, of White Plains, N. Y., 1 and 6, yesterday in the finals of the 30th PGA tournament, mainly because he was complete master of his wedge and eight iron.

The prize money vaulted Hogan's tournament earnings for the year to $13,887.50 for 49 rounds of play, second only in dollars and cents to Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, who has picked up $14,764.99 in 10 more rounds.

Turnesa, one of three brothers who have lost in the finals of PGA tournaments, simply didn't have the strokes to match the sub-par shooting of the Texas-born Hogan.

Hogan was nine strokes under par yesterday when the match ended. He completed the morning round in 32-33—65, six strokes under regulation figures. Hogan went out in 34 in the afternoon, one under, and closed the match with birdies on the 28th and 30th holes.

Turnesa went the distance in 35-37—70 in the morning and was out in 34 after lunch.

Control distance by the amount of power you put in the swing. Do not try to alter distance by the length of the swing.

It is most necessary to follow through in sand trap shots. Do not let your swing die at impact. When problems arise, or you feel yourself doing the wrong things, consult your professional. It pays.

Boosters Ask Youngsters To Stay off Grass

The Board of Directors of the Warren War Memorial today issued a plea to youngsters residing in the neighborhood of the recreational field to cease playing baseball, softball and other games on the planted area.

"We have a definite feeling that the field will be ready for football this fall," a spokesman said, "but the grass has not yet rooted to the point that it can be subjected to scuffing, sliding and wearing paths on it. In a couple of months it will be as good a surface as we ever had in Warren but we cannot take a chance on having it marked up this early."

Parents are urged to call this to their children's attention, for the War Memorial directors are reluctant to post the field against trespassing, although if the damage persists this will have to be done.

Work on the memorial gate is going ahead rapidly following the rains, and the first complete cutting of the grass is now underway.

Ike Williams Retains Title

Los Angeles, May 26—(P)—The Ike Williams camp was happy and the followers of Enrique Bolanos were unhappy—and irate.

That was the aftermath picture of last night's blistering 15-round lightweight championship fight before a record crowd in which Williams, the champion, retained his title by a split decision over Bolanos, the challenger from Mexico.

Referee Charley Randolph gave his vote to Bolanos, but the two judges, Johnny Indrisuna and Frankie Van, voted for the lilhe negro lad from Trenton, N. J.

A crowd estimated at 28,000, which paid a gross gate of $152,000 witnessed the scrap. The gate receipts broke Los Angeles' old record of $128,638 set in 1929 by Mickey Walker and Ace Hudkins.

The fight was action-packed from start to finish. Williams stalked in flatfooted, forever trying to land his well-known knock-out wallop, and Bolanos, a shifty, jabbing left hook artist, moved in and out, never letting the champ get set.

Aside from Williams' big round in the tenth, when Bolanos ran smack into a right hand and then fell victim to punishing blows to the head, no round was decided by more than one point.

Bill Jordan held the Leafs to seven ineffective hits. He fanned 13 and saved the free passes for another day.

The Batavia Clippers came from behind to trip the Hamilton Cardinals 4-2. Bob Prantice's two-run double tied the game in the fourth.

Art Fayta put the win in the bag when he singled in John Peterson. Today's games: Lockport at Batavia, Hamilton at Batavia, Wellsville at Jamestown and Olean at Bradford.

PONY LEAGUE

By The Associated Press
The Lockport Reds and the Olean Oilers are tied again today for top spot in the Pony League.

The Oilers trounced the Reds 12-4 last night. The win erased the half-game lead the Reds took on Monday night when they walloped the Oilers 13-2.

Oiler Manager George Scherger gave his boys a fine exhibition at the plate. In five trips he batted out three doubles and a pair of singles. He batted in four runs.

The Bradford Blue Wings homered themselves to a 5-3 victory over the Wellsville Red Sox. Joe Wisniewski's two-run clout put the Wings ahead 4-2 in the eighth. The Sox made it 4-3 in their half of the frame. Then Joe Lonnott Wing backstop, got a circuit hit to make it 5-3.

The Jamestown Falcons shut out the Hornell Maple Leafs 8-0.

Fit For A King

Your grandfather knew Budweiser as 'The King Of Bottled Beer'... and knew, too, that it was one of the first beverages to wear a crown top instead of the old-fashioned, wired-down cork. When next you enjoy Budweiser, look inside the cap and you'll see a disc of thin aluminum. You'll see the firm, perfect imprint of the bottle's top, showing how perfect is the seal. This precaution serves two purposes. It keeps air out. It keeps cork away from the contents. Either might mar the distinctive taste that sets Budweiser apart from all other beers.

Woman Tells of Husband's Slaying

Weeping, 26-year-old Mrs. Carol Friedman tells Coroner A. L. Brodie how she saw her husband, Leo, 33, alias "Little Sneeze," shot to death in a Chicago parking lot. Friedman, a recording company official, tripped while running from the gunmen, who then pumped three bullets into his head. Police said the killing was executed with such "perfect gangland precision" they feared it might mark the outbreak of a "juke box war" in the Chicago underworld.

Chapter 26

AS HUGH and Vince Bonney strolled along the beach the young naval officer found himself unable to forget the stiff-bodied picture of Sonia Deveraux on Frank as she confessed to her love for him. "Granted the woman was seldom and weak still, her love for her lost child seemed very genuine."

"Look Vince a starfish," Hugh's urgent tugging at his sleeve brought him back to reality. He watched the odd little fish carry the pink enameled creature to the water's edge and saw that he was collecting the "fish" that had been beneath each stone.

"What are you going to do with those?" he said curiously.

"Use them for bait. Lin Gook and I are going fishing soon."

"His happiness was infectious. You like it here, eh Hugh?" Vince said.

"Yes, I do," Hugh said seriously. "Though there aren't as many strange fish as in the Islands. When we left Honolulu Lulu was teaching me to go spearfishing. All the natives know how. Here you only do the salmon."

"Perhaps you'll stay on here for awhile."

Hugh sighed. "I don't know what will become of me now that Sophie and Simeon are dead."

Vince's mind was whirling. "They told you about Sophie?"

"I just knew somehow. She is dead, isn't she, Vince?"

"Yes," the naval officer said gently. "Sophie's gone, Hugh."

"They're dead," Hugh said lugubrously. "Just like that old fellow there." He picked up a desiccated crab shell and hurled it out into the water. "When you're dead nothing matters," he explained.

Vince didn't reply. There had been something in Hugh's voice as matter-of-fact and casual as if he'd been talking about a piece of wood or a broken toy—a thing no longer of use and therefore no longer of interest.

As they neared Kalani a sudden storm came down the wooden steps to meet them. His genial KALANI's spacious treezing unit was a long room lined with menacing meat hooks and Spartan white enamel lockers. Located beneath the pantry it was reached by narrow steps beneath the service stairs to the left wing.

As Vince and Julia made their way down the rubber-treaded steps she looked back at him with an amused quirk pulling at her lips.

"Johansen is certainly a surprise to me. I had no idea that he'd given Lin Gook any grouse to put in the freezing unit."

"Well so much happened the night of his arrival I suppose he forgot to mention it. Damn glad he finally remembered it though."

"So am I. There's nothing like stuffed grouse with wild rice and some of Lin Gook's chestnut gravy."

"Stop it, you'll have me drooling," Vince laughed.

The massive automatic lock on the refrigerator room door responded instantly to Julia's light touch and they entered leaving the door ajar.

"Look Vince, here are Johansen's grouse," Julia walked to the far end. "Aren't they beautiful creatures? It seems a pity to kill them."

"You've been trying hard enough to make him aware of you."

"Please John, don't let's quarrel—there's too much happening."

EARS burning Vince tiptoed toward the mouse; he couldn't suppress a delighted grin at what he had heard, but the sight of Duke's striding angrily from the game room startled him. He went inside and faced Johansen.

"What have you been doing to Duke?" he asked. "He looked upset."

"Asking him about his quarrel with Manny which you overheard."

The words dismayed Vince so much had happened since he'd forgotten it.

"Did he give any explanation?" Johansen's lips tightened. "He was almost too frank. Unbelievably so."

Chapter 25

AS HUGH and Vince Bonnay strolled along the beach the young naval officer found himself unable to forget the pitiful sobbed picture of Sonia Deveraux von Proski as she confessed her part in the mysterious occurrences at Kalani. Granted the woman was selfish and weak, still her love for her lost child seemed very genuine.

"Look Vince, a starfish!"

Hugh's urgent tugging at his sleeve brought him back to reality. He watched the odd little fish crawl over the pink encrusted creature to the water's edge and saw that he was collecting the tiny crabs that hid beneath each stone.

"What are you going to do with those?" he said curiously.

"Use them for bait. Lin Gook and I are going fishing soon."

His happiness was infectious. "You like it here, eh Hugh?" Vince said.

"Yes, I do," Hugh said seriously. "Though there aren't as many strange fish as in the Islands. When we left Honolulu Luku was teasing me to go spearfishing. All the natives know how. Here you only do it for salmon."

"Perhaps you'll stay on here for awhile."

Hugh sighed. "I don't know what will become of me now that Sophie and Simeon are dead."

Vince's mind was whirling. "They told you about Sophie?"

"No, I just knew somehow. She is dead, isn't she, Vince?"

"Yes," the naval officer said gently. "Sophie's gone, Hugh."

"They're dead," Hugh said lugubriously. "Just like that old fellow there." He picked up a desiccated crab shell and hurled it out into the water. "When you're dead nothing matters," he explained.

Vince didn't reply. There had been something in Hugh's voice as matter-of-fact and casual as if he'd been talking about a piece of wood or a broken toy—a thing no longer of use and therefore no longer of interest.

As they neared Kalani a pudgy man came down the wooden steps to meet them. His genial middle-aged face wrinkled in a friendly smile.

"You are Bonnay," he said with a trace of accent. "And I am Doctor Zendro. My good friend, Johanson, told me I would find you here."

Vince took the muscular hand in his then turned and introduced him to Hugh. The psychiatrist made a funny stiff little bow.

"Ah, Mr. Mannley, I am delighted to make your acquaintance."

Hugh giggled nervously. "Everyone calls me Hugh."

"Very well, Hugh it shall be. I like that better too. I am Jan."

The skin around Zendro's eyes formed tiny fleshy rolls that curved together and hid the piercing appraisal that Vince had glimpsed for a second.

"I came over to persuade Whitley to take a fishing trip next week but he seems too busy to discuss it. So I'll fish with you and the Chinese, Hugh."

Hugh stared at him. "Do you know how to fish and hunt?"

"My dear fellow, I am a Finn, of course I know these things!"

"Finland? Then you must have seen reindeer?" Hugh exclaimed. He took Zendro's arm leading him toward the pier. "Come then," he urged. "You must tell me about them." With childish thoughtlessness he forgot Vince.

A MURMUR of voices reached Vince from Sophie's "gazebo." Through a gap in the matted canopy of rambling roses he caught the bright sunny glint of Julia's hair. But the voice he heard was John Bissett's. It was passionate.

"Julia, this is the first chance I've had to talk with you alone."

"What is it, John? Have you found something for the police?"

"No, nothing like that. It's about you, Julia. His voice shook. "You need me now, Julia. You're all alone, you need someone to look after you."

"I don't think I'll be able to afford a secretary," Julia teased. "Don't let me love you, Julia. I want to marry you."

"Are you sure it's love?" Her voice was kind yet steady. "Perhaps it's just the fact that we've been around each other so much."

"No, no," he protested sharply. "Believe me, Julia, I know."

"John, it's a great honor to have someone ask you to marry them, I appreciate that. But when I marry I want to be passionately in love. I want to love him so much that I'd follow him to the ends of the earth if he asked me to."

"I'm afraid I just don't feel that way about you, John."

"That's just a romantic story-book notion, Julia. It's silly."

"No, it isn't John. Anyway it's how I feel."

Bissett's tone was suspicious. "Are you in love with someone else?"

She answered slowly. "It would certainly be one-sided if I were."

"It's Bonnay, isn't it?"

Vince's heart gave a queer startled jump; every nerve seemed to tingle as he strained to catch her reply. "What makes you say that, John?"

Bissett's voice rose angrily. "You've hung on everything he said as though it were remarkable. Don't think I haven't seen you watching him."

"That's ridiculous. Anyway there's simply no point in discussing it—Vince Bonnay doesn't seem to know that I'm alive."

"You've been trying hard enough to make him aware of you!"

"Please John, don't let's quarrel—there's too much happening."

EARS burning Vince tiptoed toward the house; he couldn't suppress a delighted grin at what he'd heard, but the sight of Duke striding angrily from the game room startled him. He went inside and faced Johanson.

"What have you been doing to Duke?" he asked. "He looked upset."

"Asking him about his quarrel with Mannley which you overheard."

The words dismayed Vince. So much had happened since he'd forgotten it.

"Did he give any explanation?"

Johanson's lips tightened. "He was almost too frank. Unbelievably so."

Chapter 26

KALANI's spacious treezing unit was a long room lined with menacing meat hooks and Spartan-white enamel lockers. Located beneath the pantry it was reached by narrow steps beneath the service stairs to the left wing.

As Vince and Julia made their way down the rubber-headed steps she looked back at him with an amused quirk pulling at her lips.

"Johanson is certainly a surprising individual. I had no idea that he'd given Lin Gook any grouse to put in the freezing unit."

"Well so much happened the night of his arrival I suppose he forgot to mention it. Damn glad he finally remembered it though."

"So am I. There's nothing like stuffed grouse with wild rice and some of Lin Gook's chestnut gravy."

"Stop it, you'll have me drooling," Vince laughed.

The massive automatic lock on the refrigerator room door responded instantly to Julia's light touch and they entered leaving the door ajar.

"Look Vince, here are Johanson's grouse," Julia walked to the far end. "Aren't they beautiful creatures? It seems a pity to kill them." She ran her fingers caressingly over their sepia breast feathers.

"Yes, beautiful. An unusual color too, very intriguing."

Something in his tone made her turn. "You're not looking at the grouse?"

"That's right. I find it rather difficult keeping my mind on game birds when a bird of brighter plumage is standing right beside me."

"You make such pretty speeches, Vince, but I never know if you mean them or if it's just the natural gallantry of a southerner."

Her voice was wistful.

"Don't you? Well, perhaps actions will speak louder than words."

Slowly he drew her toward him; her arms stole around his neck and her lips were firm and fresh and responsive to his. For one miraculous moment Kalani with its atmosphere of fear and suspicion faded into the background.

Vince stared down into pupils grown enormous with emotion.

"How was that, Julia?" he whispered.

"Wonderful! Do it again!"

He laughed. "You're a shameless hussy," he told her. "A brazen woman, but I love you for it and I'm taking you to your word."

He repeated the kiss, this time with more skill and certainty of her response. Unconsciously as their lips drew apart he was aware of a sharp click and the encompassing darkness as the brilliant lights went out.

"VINCE! . . . the lights! . . . they've gone out!"

There was terror in her voice. "What's wrong with that?" he soothed.

"You don't understand—the lights are controlled by the opening and closing of the door. Someone has shut it—we're locked in!"

Her body trembled against his. The stygian blackness seemed to drape itself around them like a velvet curtain, sound-proof and impenetrable.

Vince seized Julia's hand and with the other groped his way to the door, a door he remembered now as being of steel with heavy rubber stripping and a devilishly efficient automatic unbreakable lever on the outside.

"Keep your chin up, Julia. Johanson knows we came down here—he'll investigate if we're not back shortly."

He tried to make his voice reassuring but Julia didn't answer and he knew she was wondering if Johanson would give them another thought. He had no reason to worry about them—he wasn't waiting for their return.

"Keep moving," he ordered. "Got to keep our circulation going."

"That shouldn't be hard to do—it's a mere thirty degrees in here."

Julia moved her legs and beat her arms together, while he hurried himself at the door. The metal was icy and unresponsive; he'd never felt so thoroughly inadequate. "Let's try yelling," he suggested desperately.

"Anything to oblige," Julia laughed. "What will it be?"

"Know any Navy yells? They're easy, and they've got rhythm."

He recited a few and they screamed them in unison again and again.

Nothing happened. It was getting late . . . they'd be preparing for dinner upstairs now, wouldn't they? Something seemed to have happened to his watch, it said only five o'clock!

"Vince, I've got to stop," Julia panted beside him. "I'm so tired."

"We've got to keep on . . . mustn't get chilled . . . they'll come for us soon."

He was beginning to feel a terrible consuming need for rest too. If he could only stop for a few minutes, just shut his eyes and sleep briefly.

A sob escaped Julia's clenched lips. She swayed and sagged against him.

"None of that!" he said sharply. "Here let's get to the door."

He had noticed a long cardboard packing box containing waxed cases for holding frozen food. Now he moved it against the door and straddling it sat down and pulled Julia down next to him so that she was sitting in the hollow made by his legs and leaning back against his chest. He began rubbing her wrists briskly but the motion seemed to require enormous effort. I must keep on, he thought and the idea pounded against his brain like a tiny hammer. He buried his face in the soft hollow between her neck and shoulder. "Julia," he whispered. "I love you . . . I want you to know that."

It seemed terribly important that she realize his feeling for her. He was nodding. His chin rested heavily on her shoulder. "I love you," he said again. "Always remember, Julia." Vaguely he wished she would answer him but then he couldn't expect that could be when she was breathing so quietly . . . so rhythmically? Not when she was sleeping . . . sleeping . . . sleeping . . .
